Sustainability–Planning for the Future

Imagine it's a year from now and you've achieved IPC/IPE results far beyond your imagination. Staff, faculty and leaders are engaged at all levels, and you're experiencing cultural and system shifts in your organisation. Write a letter to yourself telling the story of what's been achieved and the role you played as a leader within this project.

- What are you most proud of?
- What are patients, students, faculty and leaders saying about the work and the organisation?
- What made the most difference in this system change? Hints about how we will know we were successful; evaluation and approach and how to sustain the changes

Share your letters at your tables. As others are reading their letters, make note of the images and phrases that catch your attention about leading and sustaining change.
