

INTRODUCTORY CLINICAL SUPERVISION WORKSHOPS

Are you a health professional looking to develop your student supervision skills?

Curtin's Faculty of Health Sciences is hosting a one-day Introductory Clinical Supervision Workshop for Health Professionals

This interactive workshop is an opportunity to develop your student supervision skills. You will be provided with a framework and model establishing an effective supervision culture within health and human service organisations. The workshop will also address compliance and assessment processes specific to your profession

Who should attend?

Health professionals in the health or human services sector who take, or are willing and qualified to take, Curtin students on placement

Registrations for this workshop are reserved for exercise and sports science, medical radiation science, midwifery, nursing, occupational therapy and oral health professionals

Details

Date:	Monday 6 November 2017
Time:	9.00am - 4.30pm
Curtin Venue:	To be confirmed on registration
Cost:	Free
Parking:	Available on campus (fees apply)

Sessions and Facilitators

- Session 1: Course specific requirements led by Curtin academic staff
- Session 2: Interprofessional delivery model and generic supervision facilitated by Kate Duncanson and Jessica Colliver

Registration

Registrations are now open. Please email your discipline contact by Monday 23 October 2017

- ◇ Exercise and Sports Science - Jessica.Colliver@curtin.edu.au
- ◇ Medical Radiation Science - Laura.Connor@curtin.edu.au
- ◇ Midwifery - L.Kuliukas@curtin.edu.au
- ◇ Nursing - Amanda.Mccallum@curtin.edu.au
- ◇ Occupational Therapy - L.Thornton@curtin.edu.au
- ◇ Oral Health - R.Allan@curtin.edu.au